Romance of a Pink Gown

By ALICE JOSEPHINE JOHNSON.

MISS LESTER made little Millie Currier very happy when she offered to give her piano lessons. The child was passionately fond of music, and to take lessons had been her dearest dream, but there had seemed small chance that it would ever be realized. Millie had no piano, and the aunt with whom she had lived since her mother's death had no money to spare for luxuries.

Miss Lester had come to Hardwick only the previous year, hoping the country air would benefit her invalid mother, but her hopes were in vain, for her mother failed instead of gaining, and died six months later. The young lady staid on with her faithful old servant in the pretty little house she had rented, feeling that one place was much like another in her sorrow and loneliness.

Millie had been one of her first friends in Hardwick, for the child used to linger outside the house to listen as she played, until the lady discovered her, and invited her to come in. And then came about the proposal that almost took Millie's breath away, that Miss Lester should give her lessons, and that she should come every day to practice on the beautiful grand piano. Millie was an affectionate child, and she almost worshiped the kind friend who had opened a new and delightful world to her, and her grateful little heart longed to do something in return. It all seemed quite impossible, but it was destined to be realized beyond her fondest hopes. And this is the way it came about:

On the following May Judge Hancock's little girl gave a lawn party and invited all the children of the village. Poor little Millie had no dress to wear, and she sadly admitted it when Miss Lester asked her if she was going.

The young lady said no more then, but just as Millie had finished her practicing and was preparing to go home, her teacher came into the room with a lovely gown in her hand.

It was a pink cashmere, embroidered with tiny sprays of lilies of the valley.

Margaret smiled at Millie's admiration, but there were tears in her eyes as she said, half to herself: "What happy days I have seen in that dress!" and then continued, as Millie looked at her inquiringly: "My father bought it for me the winter we spent in Paris. I wore it on my birthday, and we had a little fete; we four only, my mother, and father and—one friend."

"What a lovely present! and did you have other presents on your birthday?" asked Millie, who loved to hear of those gala days which she had never known.

"Oh, yes, books and candy, and dozens of pink roses and masses of lilies of the valley to match my gown, and a beautiful diamond locket, containing a miniature."

"Oh, Miss Lester, may I see the locket?" asked the child, eagerly.

Her friend looked suddenly grave and stern as she said: "No, I haven't it on now," and Millie, though longing to know if it were lost, or what its fate, dared ask no more questions. But the next moment, the young lady surprised her by telling her she was to have the gown and wear it to the children's party, and inviting her then and there to go to the dressmaker's to have her measure taken, so that the work of making over the dress could be begun at once.

At last the day came, and when she was really dressed in all her finery, her delight knew no bounds.

How lovely Millie looked, and how she enjoyed staring at herself in her friend's long mirror! It was hard to tell which was the prettier sight, the child herself, or her innocent delight in her appearance.

The party itself was fairyland to her, with the beautiful lawn and garden, lighted by Chinese lanterns as darkness fell, the luxurious mansion, the gayly dressed children, and best of all the music, for a small orchestra was provided, and there was dancing on the broad piazza.

There was a lull in the music while the performers were having refreshments, and Millie was playing an exciting game of drop the handkerchief in the summer house, when a child came running to join them. As he took his place in the ring, he said: "Mrs. Hancock wants some one to play for 'Going to Jerusalem,' and I was afraid she would ask me, so I got out of it. Somebody told her that you could play, Millie Currier, but she does not know where you are, so you are all right."

Millie flushed at the mere thought of playing before so many people, and she was tempted to remain where she was, but Miss Lester's influence made itself felt. She did not formulate it, but she felt unconsciously that since her kind teacher had done so much for her, it was only right she should make some use of what had been so generously given her. And so, despite the remonstrances of the others, she left the game and returned to the house.

Very timidly she made known her errand to Mrs. Hancock, who smiled a kind approval upon her, as she thanked her, and told her that the children had run away, thinking the game was given up, but would probably soon return. In the meantime would not Millie play one of her pieces? Mrs. Hancock asked.

There were several people in the drawing-room, among them a gentleman whose appearance had created some excitement from its being so unexpected.

Mr. Darrah was an old friend of the Hancocks' but it was several years since they had seen him, owing to his long absence abroad. He happened to be traveling through their part of the country, and finding that he should be obliged to pass the night at Eastern Junction, only ten miles' distant from Hardwick, he had hired a horse and carriage and driven over to call upon his friends.

They were delighted to see him, and hospitably urged him to spend the night. He declined the invitation, however, as he wished to take the first train in the morning from the junction, and so must drive back that evening.

They assured him that he could not escape dining with them, as they had postponed their dinner until eight o'clock on account of the children's party. He expressed his pleasure at being able to do so, and they were in full tide of earnest conversation when Millie came into the room.

He was in the midst of a sentence when his eye fell upon her, and he suddenly stopped, evidently much impressed in some way by her appearance. He watched her intently while she played, and at the close, when others were applauding her for having done so remarkably well, he went over to the piano and began to talk to her.

Mrs. Hancock, seeing his interest in the child, proposed to Millie that she should take him to the refreshment tent for an ice. The arrangement was most agreeable to both of her guests, who were soon on such friendly terms that the gentleman went so far as to admire his companion's dress.

"If you can buy such pretty things in Hardwick," said he, "I shall advise my lady friends to come here to do their spring shopping."

"I guess you were never in our Hardwick stores," answered Millie, laughing merrily at the idea. "No, indeed, this dress came from Paris!" and not without pride, she glanced at her companion to observe the effect she was producing by her surprising statement.

He looked as startled as she could have wished.

"Is that where you do your shopping?" he inquired, smiling, though his voice had a curious sharp ring.

"Oh, no, of course not, I never was there. My music teacher gave me this."

"And her name?" he asked, breathlessly.

"Miss Lester," said Millie.

He drew a sharp breath. "Miss Margaret Lester?" he demanded.

"Yes, that is her name," replied Millie, surprised in her turn at his excitement.

"And she is not married?" continued Mr. Darrah.

"No, indeed. She is all alone. Her mother died last year, and she is very sad and lonely."

"Where does she live?" he asked, abruptly. "Not in this town?"

"Yes, just below here," Millie replied, "you can see the house from here; that yellow one with the cupola," pointing it out.

"Thank you very much," said her strange companion, and in a moment he was outside the grounds, hurrying down the street.

Dinner was over, and the evening passed, and still nothing was seen of Mr. Darrah. The clock had struck 11; the coachman had come in to inquire if he should put the gentleman's horse up for the night, and the family were debating as to the advisability of retiring, when the culprit appeared, breathless and heated as though from hurrying.

When he could speak he began his apologies. He was assured that he could be pardoned on only one condition; that he make a full and free explanation of his erratic behavior.

He agreed that his rudeness demanded it, and, not without confusion, related his story.

Three years before, while living in Paris, where his business interests demanded his presence, he had met Miss Lester and become engaged to her. Then a wretched misunderstanding arose, and they quarreled and parted. To change the proverb slightly, "They quarreled in haste, to repent at leisure." Soon after the Lesters left Paris and returned to America. He heard accidently of Mr. Lester's death, and then a rumor reached him of the young lady's approaching marriage, but he soon lost all trace of her. On his return to America the previous winter, he tried in vain for news of her. They had no mutual friends of whom he could inquire, and he could learn absolutely nothing of her.

The dress which Millie wore was one he well remembered, and aroused his interest and curiosity at once. The rest they knew.

Here peals of laughter met him, and the judge said, gravely: "You have related events up to seven o'clock this evening. It is with the last four hours we have now to deal. You have only to begin the story instead of ending it."

"Yes; go on, go on," they all cried. The poor fellow looked confused, indeed, for a moment, polished man of the world as he was, but recovering himself, he said: "I must leave that to your imagination. It ought to suffice to be told that the engagement is renewed."

And Miss Lester, or Mrs. Darrah, as she became soon after, was fond of reminding Millie that because she was kind and obliging and returned to the drawing-room to play, as Mrs. Hancock wished, she had been the means of making two people happy for life.

These same people were ever the best of friends to Millie, whom they loved hardly less than their own children. She was educated as her first teacher had planned, and became an artist of no small merit; and, what is better, a good and noble woman.—Portland Transcript.

CANALS IN THE NORTHWEST.

The Great Development and Increase of Traffic During the Last Few Years.

The first locks at St. Mary's falls were opened in 1855, in which year the registered tonnage was 106,296. The half-million mark was reached in 1863, and the 1,000,000 mark was passed in 1873. In 1881, exactly coincident with the opening of a new and much larger lock, the northwest began to grow by leaps and bounds, and the tonnage of the canal rose from 2,000,000 tons in 1882 to 9,000,000 in 1890 and to 16,000,000 in 1896. During the past five years, two more enormous locks have been in operation, one of them on the Canadian side of the river, and in this short time the tonnage of the canal has leaped up to nearly 28,500,000 tons. This colossal tonnage is simply a manifestation of the development which has taken place in the northwest, along with which has come the building of thousands of miles of railroad, including two lines from the head of Lake Superior to the Pacific coast, says the Engineering Magazine. If by some cataclysm of nature the great lakes should be dried up, the enormous traffic now carried on their waters would be divided among the railroads — it would simply cease to exist. The whole galaxy of cities from Buffalo to Chicago and Duluth would be overwhelmed in hopeless, irretrievable ruin and the railroads could in no wise escape the general disaster.

CHANGE OF VENUE.

Judge Julian Transfers Cockrell's Case to Wolfe County for Trial.

A special from Jackson to the Lexington Leader of the 21st inst., says a change of venue to Wolfe county was that day granted in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Tom Cockrell, for the murder of Ben Hargis. After hearing the testimony Attorney J. B. Nesbitt argued for the defense and Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd for the prosecution.

Judge Julian delivered a strong talk on lawlessness in passing on the motion.

The Hargises declared that they would withdraw from the prosecution and wanted Byrd to dismiss the case. Byrd consulted Judge Julian on this point, but the latter peremptorily refused to entertain any such motion.

The Hargis position is that they would have to come armed to Wolfe county to protect their lives, and that such action would give grounds for the statements of the Cockrells as to feud conditions that had existed at Jackson. They say they were never in any feud and say also that they want to prove it.

They say that they want the exiles to come back and resume business and that they will show to the world that there is no feud on their part.

The date of the trial to be held in Wolfe county is yet to be agreed upon. The people about Jackson, except the Hargises, think that the selection of this county was wise.

T. P. Cole, who is now exiled at Lexington, truthfully expressed the situation to a Leader reporter, as follows:

"This is a good selection. That county is out of the range of the feud belt and a fair trial could be gotten there. They have an excellent court house at Campton, and I am certain a fair trial can be had there if anywhere on earth."

HON. F. A. HOPKINS,

OF PRESTONSBURG.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

HOLLON.—We are authorized to announce I. R. HOLLON as a candidate for the office of Circuit Court Clerk of Wolfe County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

EDITORIAL+ ERUPTIONS.

As THE result of the automibile accident in France, in which Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Fair were killed, there is to be much more litigation over the Fair estate. On the point of which died first, husband or wife, depends the disposition of Charles T. Fair's share of his father's estate. If the husband died first the wife inherited from him, and her heirs are in line for whatever her will or the law would give them. On the other hand if the wife died first, her heirs would have no claim to what would have been her interest in her husband's estate had she survived him. Physicians who reached the scene soon after the accident say that both victims had apparently been killed outright, and it would probably be extremely difficult to ascertain with exactness whether one survived the other. The California law, under which the estate will be distributed, presumes that in cases of practically simultaneous death where it is impossible to be certain, the woman dies first. A great legal battle will certainly be fought before the Fair millions are disposed of.

UNDER the head of announcements in this issue will be found the name of I. R. Hollon, who aspires to the office of Circuit Court Clerk. Space in this issue is too limited to exploit the many excellent qualifications of our young friend for the clerkship he covets, but suffice it that he has learned the duties pertaining to the position under a master hand, having done duty as a deputy under J. F. Vansant, the present incumbent, than whom there is not in Kentucky a more efficient official. It is therefore enough to say that he is excellently equipped, and as to politics he is a simon-pure, dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, who loves nothing better than to help his party on to victory by his vote. Confident of fair treatment by his constituency we now present our client for their consideration.

CUBA wants a loan of $35,000,000. This would be a mortgage of about $30 on every man, woman and child on the island. The national debt of the United States is only $14.52 per head, and at its highest point was only $78.25 per capita. If Cuba ever needed a guiding hand she certainly does at this time.

JUDGE OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, who has just been appointed to the United States supreme court bench, is the son of a distinguished father, but he has also achieved distinction, and the general verdict is that President Roosevelt made a wise appointment.

DELAWARE is trying to find out where she is "at," and which one of the political factions has the heaviest mortgage. It may be necessary to hold a peace conference in order to have representatives in Washington when congress opens.

CAPTAIN CARTER now says if they will only let him he will prove that he didn't take any of the government funds. He intimates that Ganow and Green got it all. He has had lots of time to prove that he didn't do it, and tell where he got it.

THIS has been a great corn and wheat year for the farmers, and their profits is estimated at $2,000,000,000 or more. Statistics show as follows: Wheat, 333,500,000 bushels; corn, 2,589,951,000 bushels; barley, 120,900,850 bushels; rye, 70,350,800 bushels; oats, 751,528,724 bushels. Therefore a total of 4,128,230,500 bushels of cerials was produced by less than 4,000,000 farmers on 841,000,000 acres of soil, the lands upon which these crops were grown being worth $20,000,000,000. The products in 1899 sold for $4,739,118,725 and the quantity of every cerial this year is about equal to that of 1899, excepting corn. There was raised this year 500,000,000 more bushels of corn. The profit on corn and wheat has been figured down to an average per acre. This year the average yield of corn is 30 bushels per acre and the cost of producing is $5.75 per acre. Consequently the cost of planting, cultivating and gathering the new corn crop for the fall of 1902 will be $500,000,000. The value of the corn crop in 1901 was $921,000,000, but corn went to a high price at certain seasons.

JOHN W. GATES has been occupying a front seat in the financial field of late, but the return of Morgan throws Gates ajar, as it were.

This Offer Is For 30 Days Only.

$1.25. As we are bound to raise some money within the next 30 Days, we will during that time take subscriptions to THE HERALD and the Courier-Journal (twice a week), for $1.25. Old subscribers may take advantage of this offer by paying up all arrearages and one year in advance, but the time will not be extended beyond Aug. 30. This is a losing game with us, but if 250 or more will take advantage of it the fact that this sum will come practically in a lump will compensate us. Tell your neighbors and friends about it!

The First Time in Twenty Years.

Frank Trimble, who was born and raised here, but now lives in Memphis, Tenn., is here visiting his brother, Uncle Pres Trimble, and other relatives for the first time in 20 years. He left here in 1862, and with the exception of a visit at long intervals has not been here since. In a conversation with him yesterday morning he told THE HERALD man that on Tuesday he saw his sister, Mrs. Louisa Wilson ("Logston's" wife), for the first time in 32 years. He recalled the hanging of Bill and Andy Martin from a limb of the big oak tree in front of our office, and told of how he was in hiding from soldiers at the time. He subscribed, of course, for THE HERALD, which he said he appreciated above all the many papers that come to him, so much so, indeed, that he had filed away many copies for future reference. Mr. Trimble is 63 years of age, but he does not look to be over 50, which shows that the climate of Memphis agrees with him physically, and as he is largely interested in real estate there, the presumption is that it also suits him financially.

Profits In Printers' Ink.

Rev. Sam Taulbee has rented of Henry Pieratt the Taylor Johnson property, adjoining public school grounds, and Frank Brenneman rented one of the new cottages on Highland street, in the Pieratt addition. There is now only one left, and if you want it you had better speak quick. Here is proof positive that printers' ink pays a big percentum. Less than a month ago Mr. Pieratt had seven houses for rent and a seven-line local has already rented six of them, with a prospect that the remaining one will be rented before our next paper is put to press.

West Liberty Dist. Annual Meeting

The annual meeting for West Liberty District will convene with the church at White Oak, Morgan county, on Friday, September 19, and continue over Sunday, the 21st. It was voted at the last annual assembly that all meetings thereafter should be "delegated meetings," and the church where meeting is held would be asked to entertain "the delegates." The delegates to the annual meeting consist of all preachers, church officers, and persons appointed by the churches as delegates. Others may attend but the church will not be expected to entertain them.

We want a "working meeting," and not an "eating meeting."

The day was just too lovely, you know.

"His Granddaughter Kate."

Ann Keeton and daughter, Kate Smith, and Ann's youngest son, a trio of colored folks from Jackson, have been guests of Uncle Pres Trimble for about a week, and calling upon other white friends in town. Ann and Kate are the wife and daughter, respectively, of Mitch Keeton, all of whom served in Uncle Pres' family a few years since, and when they started calling a few days since, he said to Kate, who grew up in his service, "Tell Cooper my granddaughter is visiting me," referring to her, of course. The remark and the incident bring back ante-bellum days of slavery, where there existed a mutual attachment as astonishing as it was ardent. Just such a feeling prevails with these people and while life lasts a bond of sympathy will exist between them. Aye, when the remorseless scythe shall sweep from the stage of action all that is mortal of Uncle Pres, there will be no sincerer sorrow than that of Negro Ann and "His granddaughter Kate."

Our "Little Nel" Goes Visiting.

Miss Nellie Evans will leave the latter part of this or the first of the coming week for Cedar Bluff, Va., where she will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wm. P. Cecil, until next June, and all her friends, co-equal with the inhabitants of the town, wish her a round of unalloyed joy during her long sojourn. Everyone who has ever read about the "Little Nel" which Dickens so pathetically portrays, instinctively feels that he is with the heroine of "Old Curiosity Shop" when in the presence of our little Nellie. Many times the writer has felt this, and frequently heard it remarked by others.

HERALD JOB PRINTING IS THE BEST, and the cheapest

CAMPTON COURIER.

BEN SEWELL, EDITOR. VOLUME I.—NUMBER 14.

EDITORAIL EFFUSIONS.

OWING to long-established policy and usage in newspaperdom, we cannot afford to blow a candidate's horn gratis. It takes money, and lots of it, to run a paper. It also takes money to run a political campaign. The various Republican candidates should announce in these columns. Then we shall feel abundantly free to turn our batteries loose in their behalf. The CAMPTON COURIER of THE HERALD is intensely Republican, and would tear up the stumps for the Republican candidates if it but had a chance. Peradventure they do not care for our support in this paper. We will maintain silence till their announcement, accompanied with the "spondulix" is received. Let us have your announcements, gentlemen.

NOTE.—Subscriptions covering campaign—from now until Dec. 4th inclusive, will be received at 25 cents each, and if enough patronage is assured us to justify expense, announcements included, this department will be enlarged. Now come.—Editor.

LAST week the Jackson Hustler, in one of its regular periodic fits of insanity, in talking of our Republican candidate for congress, among other things says: "Mr. White belongs to the 'nigger equality' Republican party and therefore believes in 'nigger equality,' and all good people should and will vote against him." Don't be scared, Bro. Morrow, for if White is elected, by some special arrangement and act of congress you shall be excluded from entering into the colored society circles, as the colored brethren do not want to mix and mingle with you—a man who will compliment a candidate in one sentence and in the next, out of downright partisan prejudice slander him so wantonly and inexcusably. You whine like one, gone back on his raising, who has been caressed and spanked by a "darky mammy."

THE Democratic party is a party of wonderful ingenuity. Upon the stump the Republican orators have asserted as a fact that the Democratic party was without an issue, and the people believed it true. But, by hocus-pocus, some smart Democrat, burnt into a blister on defeats, has resurrected the old lick-skilet cry of "negro-equality." A ginger-cake wagered that the Democrats will bend every effort to organize Democratic Clubs of colored folks wherever there are as many as a corporal's guard to be found. Association and affiliation won't mix.

THE gold-bug has ceased to annoy, alarm and intimidate the Democrats. The trust-bug has frightened them out of their senses, and the black bug of negro equality has run the whole brainless set crazy.

LOCAL LACONICS.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. James Reynolds is dangerously ill.

A union prayer meeting was held at the Methodist Church here on Sunday.

G. W. Halsey and wife were the guests of James Rose, of Stillwater, on Sunday last.

Since our last issue marriage license has been issued P. S. Warfield and Mary Rison.

J. H. Stamper last Saturday sold one seven-year-old mule, 16 hands high, to W. L. Byrd; price $115.

Aunt Peggy Tolson, whose illness has been reported, continues to grow worse, and day by day is nearing the borderland of death.

Hannibal Hurst is visiting his sister, Mrs. D. B. Redwine of Jackson, and incidentally making a house-to-house still hunt for a sweetheart.

The following registered at the Combs House on Sunday: Fred Wigginton and George G. Cox, of Frenchburg: Sam Helton and Sylvester Helton, of Godsey, and J. M. Benton, of Caney.

Last week Sheriff Stamper arrested James Stevens on a warrant to keep the peace, sworn out by J. N. Chambers. On trial of the case before Judge Congleton he was bound to the peace, and being unable to execute bond in the sum of $1,000, he was remanded to jail.

Deputy Internal Revenue Collector J. L. McCoy was here last Saturday and Sunday, the welcome guest of R. E. Cundiff. McCoy is a prospective candidate for Railroad Commissioner.

Capt. W. L. Hurst and son Hannibal and daughters Minnie and Sallie, who have been on a two-weeks' visit to relatives in Indiana, returned home last week, much pleased with their trip.

Wonder if the Democrats will have backbone, nerve and courage enough to even suggest the name of some Democrat for Circuit Judge, other than the machine candidate, David Bucky Redwine? Let us see.

Mrs. Laura Horton went to Jackson last week to be at the bedside of her daughter, Miss Mida, who was sick at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Bolin. Mrs. Horton returned home Saturday, bringing her daughter with her.

Judge I. R. Hollon, W. C. Pryor, I. W. Combs, Harry Combs, C. F. Combs and Miles Tolson, of the Campton Sporting Club, went to Red River last week on a fishing spree, and report a good "drag" of fish and an all-round enjoyable time.

The funeral of Hent Sally's wife and child was preached by Rev. Henry W. Taylor at the Hurst school house on Stillwater Sunday. G. B. Stamper, J. C. Hurst and J. T. Williams, of this place, attended and faired sumptuously at the table of John Tester, for dinner.

The annual District Conference of the Protestant Methodist Church will commence Tuesday, Sept. 9th, at the Meadow Branch Church, in this county, and continue six days. It will be conducted by Rev. C. H. Garrison, President of the District Conference, and other noted divines.

The Democratic Committee of this county has been ordered by J. F. Vansant, Chairman, to meet at the Circuit Court Clerk's office in Campton, Monday, Sept. 1st, for the purpose of fixing a time and machining a manner of nominating a Democratic candidate for Circuit Clerk of this county.

The many friends of J. F. Vansant will be more than glad to hear that he has traded off his 17-hands-high, slow-creeping saddle mule to Trading-John Napier for a rickity-rackity buggy, and possibly three or four one-cent pieces to boot. Saving and excepting this trade there has been no excitement in the Campton stock market the past week. This news is calculated to shock Wall street and cause the plungers to meditate.

Dr. I. A. Shirley has been appointed by the State Medical Association counsellor for the Tenth Congressional District, and will proceed to organize Medical Associations in every county of the district. Dr. Shirley will be at Campton the first Wednesday in September for the purpose of organising an association in this county, and is very anxious that all the doctors of this county be in attendance on this date.

The change of venue having been granted, the case against Thomas Cockrell for the killing of Ben Hargis, at Jackson, will be tried in this county about the middle of October. The interested parties in the case for the prosecution and the defense should come unarmed and unguarded and have no fear of being harmed or hurt. Wolfe county is in the forefront of civilization, law and order, and will see to it that the strong arm of the law shields and protects every citizen who comes within her borders.

Religious services at the Antioch Church last Thursday, conducted by Revs. Ball and Stamper, were suddenly and shockingly terminated by a regular hair-pulling, club-knocking pugilistic encounter by some women of the congregation. It was a womans' fight in which three or four took a spirited and strenuous part, jealousy being the root of the trouble. "Hell was loose in Georgia" for a while. Glad to report that no one was killed, and for the respect of the combatants their names are withheld.

Escaped From School of Reform.

Miss Cora Thornbury, aged 16, was placed in jail at Lebanon last Wednesday. She escaped from the School of Reform near Lexington and was captured at Stanford by Superintendent E. H. Doak, of that institution.

The Thornbury girl and Lela Pemberton, of Garrard county, escaped together. Mr. Doak went to Green or Taylor county in quest of the Pemberton girl.

The Thornbury girl alleged cruel treatment as the cause of leaving, and said she had known them to whip girls as large as herself.

A Mistake Corrected.

We owe Willie Day, who was last week visiting our town an apology and hasten to make it. Momentary lapsus memoriæ caused us to say that he is clerking for Willie Pieratt, at Bethel, when in fact he is in business for himself, being with W. F. and James Horton as partner in the hardware business at Bethel. What caused the lapus calami is even more curious than the first slip. But the mistake was unintentional, and we hope it has caused neither suffering, sorrow or suicide.

Sam Roberts Raised Nearly $600.

A letter containing a draft for $567 was received at the headquarters of the National McKinley Association, Canton, Ohio, Wednesday last from Sam J. Roberts, formerly of Canton, and now owner and editor of the Leader, a Republican newspaper published at Lexington, Ky. He agreed to raise in Lexington 10% of Kentucky's quota of the McKinley monument fund, and the sum he sent is more than a third of the amount contributed by the whole state.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for awhile we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits.

There Was No Cattle Show.

Texas fever having appeared in several herds of dairy cattle near Shelbyville and in close proximity to the Shelby County Fair Grounds, where the annual exhibition takes place this week, the fair directors last week decided not to have any cattle rings. Seven head have died, others have been killed, and the remainder of those affected isolated by order of Dr. Eisenman, State Veterinarian. The disease is supposed to have been brought there by a lot of western ponies herded there during the past months.

All Were Saved.

"For years I suffered such untold misery from Bronchitis," writes J. H. Johnston, of Broughton, Ga., "that often I was unable to work. Then, when everything else failed, I was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. My wife suffered intensely from Asthma, till it cured her, and all our experience goes to show it is the best Croup medicine in the world." A trial will convince you it's unrivaled for Throat and Lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. Taylor Day, Hazel Green, and S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton, drug stores.

A MARVELOUS MACHINE.

Powerful Device, for Picking Up Ocean Cables from the Briny Depths.

A truly wonderful piece of mechanism is the "picking-up" machine used in all grappling and cable-hoisting operations in cable laying. It is a powerful variety of the steam-winch family, but also a most aristocratic and elaborate member, fitted with gear-changing clutches, patent brakes and other ingenious appliances. To give some idea of its capabalities in dry figures, it can at slow speed lift 25 tons at a rate of one mile per hour, or at fast speed ten knots at the rate of four miles per hour. Moreover, it can be quickly altered and adapted to changing circumstances in speed or lifting weight, says Lippincott's.

All being made ready, the big grapnel, attached to 700 or 800 fathoms of chain and rope, is passed over the bow-sheave, or pulley, and as soon as it reaches bottom the ship is sent slowly ahead. Back and forward across the path of the cable, as pointed out by the friendly marking buoys, we steam. Several times the grapnel catches something, only to lose its hold again—probably an inequality upon the bottom, although a bosun's mate mumbles "mermaid's grottoes"—but at last comes a steady strain. Every soul on board hangs over the bow, watching the grimy grapnel rope come steadily up and over the well-oiled pulley. At length the grapnel itself appears, holding tight on to the truant.

CYCLES OF SUN SPOTS.

Fresh Interest Lent to the Subject by Recent Earthquakes and Volcanic Eruptions.

Since 1851, when the existence of a sun spot cycle of about 11½ years was discovered, many attempts have been made to discover a relation between the sun spots and the atmospheric changes in our earth. Violent storms, floods, periods of drought and of famine, cold years, warm years, and many such variations of weather have all been supposed to owe their origin to the sun spots. But the relation which Sir Norman Lockyer appears to have discovered between sun spot cycles and the tremendous upheavals of the earth which we term earthquakes and volcanoes, lends a fresh interest to this fascinating study, says Golden Penny.

The matter certainly deserves very full investigation. Incidentally, the general character of the weather in the spring of the year seems to favor the existence of a 35 years' cycle of weather. That is, three times one cycle of sun spots. The year 1867 was just after the sun spot minimum, and 1902 is also just after the minimum. It was a cold spring in 1867, and a bitterly cold month of May. The summer was very wet, and it was followed by a stormy winter, with little frost, and a very warm spring and summer in 1868.

SAILORS IN BOSTON.

Yachting Is One of the Foremost Pleasures and Pastimes of the Hub.

Who sails boats around Boston? Why, everyone! says W. J. Henderson, in Atlantic. From the "Adams Boys," the smartest yacht racers of the east, down to the Marblehead street boy, everyone takes pride in his skill in getting the best work out of some sort of a sailing boat. Those who do not sail talk about it, and on a summer day in the drowsy atmosphere of a Boston club, or in the shadow of some tall pile in Washington street, you shall hear more racing seaman's lore than anywhere else in this country except on the cruising ground of the Rocking Chair fleet at the Larchmont Yacht club. Boston's claim to be the hub of the universe may be disputed perhaps when you consider the steel industry or the unimportant matter of freight tonnage; but when you come to talk about sailing, you must admit that Boston is the greatest yachting port in this country. Even the little children there know the history of the America's cup, and the public school boy can sail a dory with a leg-of-mutton sail for driving power and an oar for steering gear.

PIGEONS CARRY DISEASE.

Ohio Health Authorities Suspect the Birds of Causing a Scarlet Fever Epidemic.

An epidemic of scarlet fever, starting in Cincinnati, has spread in the last few weeks through a number of towns in Ohio, and the health authorities, after taking extraordinary precautions to confine the disease within the limit of its first ravages, were puzzled to understand the means by which it was carried elsewhere, states the Chicago Tribune.

They made an investigation and have now come to the conclusion that much of the contagion was spread by tame pigeons and doves which carried the germs from place to place.

The evidence on which this theory is based is that scarlet fever spread under strict quarantine from a house on the roof of which there was a large pigeon cote. The only live stock about the house not quarantined was the pigeons, which flew about the neighborhood.

If they didn't carry the disease germs the authorities don't know how the fever was spread.

Postoffice Robbery.

Alfred Robinson and Jas. Monroe, two negroes charged with robbing the postoffice and store of E. B. The many friends in this section of C. M. Wallin, eldest son of Rev. J. H. Wallin, will be pleased to know that he has been elected principal of Menaul School, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, by the school board of that city, with a faculty of eight teachers under him, with a salary of $100 per month. Albuquerque is a city of about 50,000 inhabitants, and the selection of Mr. Wallin as principal of above mentioned school is quite a compliment to his ability as a teacher.—Jackson Hustler.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland ave., Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress.

The Sheriff of Johnson county and his deputies were on Wednesday week summoned to White House to protect the negroes at work on the C. & O. White laborers on the railroad had posted notices warning the negroes to leave. Everything was quiet at last accounts.

The subject matter of this great contest is the total vote cast for Governor in the States of New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan on the 4th day of November, 1902.

Every person interested in the science of Government should be interested in the election in these states. An election in New York is always of national import, and in point of political significance, Pennsylvania is second in importance only to the great Key Stone State, while Michigan is rapidly becoming an important political factor in the sisterhood of states. Much valuable information can be gained by a study of the political conditions involved in the elections to be held in these three states.

CONDITIONS OF THIS GREAT CONTEST

Every subscriber who remits $1.00, the regular subscription price for a year's subscription to THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD, will receive a certificate that will secure for him any prize which his estimate entitles him to claim.

☞ In addition to the certificate to each subscriber who remits $1.00, agents will be allowed one certificate for every two yearly subscriptions sent in, either new ones or renewals.

When you send in your subscription, also send your estimates of the total vote for Governor in the three states. Write your name, address and estimate in the subscription blank below and mail to THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD.

The contest will close at midnight, Nov. 3, 1902, and no estimate received after that hour will be allowed. The official certificates of the Secretaries of the three States, showing the total vote for Governor, will determine who are entitled to the prizes, and the awards will be made by a disinterested committee of prominent juges, just as soon as the official figures can be obtained.
